

If I Were a Rich Man . . .

Cherry Carl

My mother gave me some coins on market day.
What could I buy? I was ready to pay!
But there it was and then I knew
I wanted a bike that was red and blue!

If I saved my coins it would take a while,
So I stacked them up in rows and piles.
I learned to ride my father's bike
And wished and wished for the one I'd like.

Thanks to my generous, caring father,
I now have a bike to help my mother.
I still have my coins and a brand new plan.
Now if I were a rich man . . .
